Observations...

By UDELL

The proposed hike in commuters' rates by the L & N Railroad has been postponed until the hearing scheduled by the Interstate Commerce Commission for May 6 at the St. Charles Hotel, New Orleans, before Examiner Diamondson of the I. C. C. A proposed increase of 40% was scheduled, and numerous residents of this area met to determine what could be done to keep the present rates. They sought the help of Congressman W. Colmer, Senator John Stennis and Ike Sanford, Public Service Commissioner of the Southern District. The rates, which were to be increased Wednesday, will remain the same until acted upon by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Bay St. Louis' gardens seem to be budding forth in preparation for the Garden Club Pilgrimage next week. This fair city is running in close competition with Mobile, the azalea kingdom. The azaleas in Bay St. Louis this year are a beautiful site to see.

Have you pledged your pint of blood for March 17, yet? If any member in your family ever needs blood because of illness or an accident, it will be available for them upon request at the hospital in which they are being treated. When a life of a loved one is saved through this life-giving blood, you will be thankful that you answered the call of the American Red Cross Blood Bank and gave willingly so that others might benefit from your generosity. The Bank will be held at the Youth Center, Monday, March 17.

"Curious Savage" Has Unusual Male Talent In Cast

What could better express the motives of those volunteers, your neighbors, everyone, for the time and effort they put into the various services of the local Red Cross Chapter, than the words of the noted author of "Peace of Mind," the late Rabbi Joshua Liebman.

"What is the Red Cross? It is the achievement in our day of a new brotherhood, a new internationalism, a universal conscience. The Red Cross is the marriage of knowledge and compassion, a faith of feeling rather than a rope of wrath. The Red Cross is science planted in the soil of good will. The Red Cross is a faith - the faith that man is valuable, that nature is conquerable; that disease is controllable; that society is redeemable. The Red Cross is a dream, and more than that, a plan for a better world in which we shall all work for the blessing of all and the hurt of none; the joy of all and the sorrow of none; the life of all and the death of none. The Red Cross is one of the supreme organizations in the history of mankind."

The Red Cross is the symbol of mercy. Who made it that? The people said they made it the symbol of mercy by enabling the Red Cross to provide quick and sure relief for the victims of storms and floods and earthquakes and epidemics and accidents and war.

The people, officials know, will keep it America's symbol of mercy by giving again this year, when a Red Cross worker calls.

Reports of workers in the fund campaign, now underway, are encouraging. Remembering the recent assistance rendered the victims of the February windstorm, a sum, approximately half the amount of our quota, let's show our gratitude, let's give 'til it hurts.

Plan S. J. A. Day Of Recollection

The Day of Recollection for the St. Joseph Academy Alumnae association will be held Sunday, April 20, at S. J. A. and Our Lady of the Gulf Church.

Monsignor H. A. Jacobi will deliver the sermon and speak during the day which will begin with the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass and procession from the church to the shrine. The general meeting and luncheon will be held in the afternoon followed by the installation of new members.

8. Dr. and Mrs. Chas. M. Bannister. Lovely grounds with thousands of azaleas and camellias. Attractive swimming pool surrounding lovely brick home.

An interesting array of male talent will be seen in the forthcoming Little Theatre production, "The Curious Savage."

Mark Solomon, who has been absent from Theatre productions for some time, will appear in this play. He always gives his audience a superior performance.

Another interesting personality, who has done some excellent roles, is Roland Weston. Last season, he did a fine job as the Senator in "Born Yesterday," and in his comedy role in "Arsenic and Old Lace."

A newcomer to the playhouse is Dr. John Husband of Tulane University. Dr. Husband is extensively versed in dramatics and is a valuable addition to the Theatre.

Lucien Raymond, whose part as Mr. Cohen in "Abie's Irish Rose," gave gales of merriment to the audience, will give another outstanding piece of character work in this presentation.

Rounding out an excellent casting job is Phillip Allison whose many roles have made possible a number of the local productions.

Dr. Harold M. Keefe, who learned his theatre the hard way, is director of "The Curious Savage." He did stunts with the celebrated Charles Wininger and was a prop boy for the famous Jenny Eagles where he watched acting by the country's best in the equally famous play, "Rain."

Last season when the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre presented "Rain," Doctor Keefe was a natural for the role of Trader Horn for which he earned an Oscar.

Bay P-T. A. Panel Discusses Results Of Questionnaires

The Bay High P-T. A. met Tuesday evening in the Home Making department with Wayne Allison presiding. The meeting was opened with a prayer by Rev. Schuyler Batson.

Mrs. Paul Miller read the minutes, after which Charles Breath Jr., Mrs. Gerald Favre and Carl Arnold were appointed to investigate the possibilities for a program of entertainment on July 4 for Bay St. Louis, with the cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations.

Mrs. Ernest Yates, Mrs. Norma Perkins, and Mr. Carl Arnold were chosen to act as the nominating committee.

After the business meeting, a Parent-Teacher panel, composed of Mrs. Norman Hall, Miss Julia Blaise, Mrs. John Hebert, Dr. John Husband and Rev. The students felt their greatest need in the school to be the knowledge of how to study. The relationships in the home were reported to be good. They expressed the desire for more recreational activities in the community such as public swimming facilities, skating rink, bowling alley and tennis courts. A general discussion followed.

After the noon count was taken with Mrs. Hall and Miss Spertorno going for first place, refreshments were served to those present.

She did ten years of research work at Cornell and two years at Rutgers. Throughout the United States and Europe, she has studied azaleas and the azalea blight. She followed this blight from California across the country and did extensive work in the City of Mobile where she worked with various formulas to protect that city from the dreadful blight which harmed so many of its magnificent plants.

She is the authoress of such well-known works as "The Plant Doctor," "The Gardeners' Bug Book," and "Anyone Can Grow Roses." No motive has as yet been uncovered in the fatal shooting of a Columbia, Mississippi, mother and daughter by Bill Lawless, 36, husband and father of the deceased.

Also wounded by Lawless, a prominent construction company manager, were his son, William Jr., 9, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Claude S. Hancock of Pearlington, Mississippi.

Deputy Sheriff Leroy Morgan said the shooting occurred about 8:00 a.m. while Mrs. Lawless, 35, was preparing breakfast. He added that the table was set for three persons and that Mrs. Lawless was in the kitchen when Lawless fired her with a .32-caliber pistol in the kitchen. He said the daughter's body was found in the hall near the telephone.

Lawless, after shooting the boy and Mrs. Hancock, drove 500 yards to the office of the Boyd Construction Company, locked the door and shot himself fatally, Morgan said.

Reports from the Marion County General Hospital stated that Mrs. Hancock was not in critical condition as far as can be determined and described her injuries about the head and eyes as painful. William Jr., wounded in the shoulder, was described as being not badly hurt.

A neighbor, Billy Day, 25, factory worker, said Lawless always got up early and went to the office before returning home for breakfast. He said he saw Lawless return and shortly thereafter heard a shot.

Day said he took his small son with him to investigate. Upon arrival, they found Mrs. Hancock near the rear door after she had been shot. He then took her and his boy to his home and from there to the hospital.

At the request there was testimony that Lawless was well liked by everyone, he was devoted to his children and got along well with his family. His mother-in-law who resides in Pearlington, had come to Columbia because of illness to stay with her daughter.

Mrs. Lawless, in addition to being president of the Columbia P-T. A. was also a Girl Scout leader.

After no apparent motive had been uncovered, Morgan added that William Jr. and sister and shot me and grandmother. No further statement was obtained from the boy he added.

CAR PLUNGES INTO BRIDGE

An automobile driven by Victor Lind, resident of Hancock County, plunged into the Bayou Tallow bridge, Friday, March 7, around 11:30 p.m.

Lind, who was pinned between the steering wheel roof and seats of the car, which had turned over, was able to keep his head above the rising tide and cry for help. His cries were heard by J. W. Bilbo, employee of Gilmore Motor Company, who resides near the bridge.

When he discovered the accident, Bilbo called for Gilmore's wrecker and Fahey's ambulance. Arriving at the bridge, Charles Scianna and Warren Buehler, immediately got to work and pulled the car from the water. It was through their efforts and knowledge of the equipment used that Lind's life was saved. Kenneth Whitfield of Fahey's climbed under the automobile and freed Lind, who was then taken to King's Daughters hospital where he was treated for shock and exposure.

UNLESS BLOOD IS PUT IN THE BANK, IT CANNOT BE TAKEN OUT. Since the first visit of the Red Cross Blood Bank to Hancock County, the people of this community have enjoyed the benefits of a constant supply of blood and blood products so essential for the relief of suffering and saving of lives.

Although the blood program is sponsored by the American Red Cross, it is essentially a community project. Donors give their blood to others in the community who are in need of it through the Red Cross. The program was given the approval of local medical, hospital and health authorities when first started here; and through the medical advisory committee, it is under the control of local physicians at all times. Everyone is reminded that in order to receive this free blood, applications must be made at the hospital in which they are a patient, or it cannot be allowed.

When you make your appointment for Monday, March 17, to give that sorely needed pint of blood keep in mind that it will also save a life that may be your own.

The requirements for blood donors are as follows:

All donors must abstain from any of the following foods for SIX HOURS BEFORE DONATING BLOOD.

TIPS FOR THE Home Gardener

AZALEAS & CAMELIAS - Now is the time to look after both of these plants. Both are acid requiring plants, and should be fertilized shortly after blooming. We recommend Azalea and Camellia Vigoro. Some folks like 5-10-5 and cottonseed meal, and this mixture is also very good. Soak fertilizer in bed and much well with oak leaves.

PECAN TREES - Use 5-10-5 now at rate of one pound for each year of age of tree. For large trees of unknown age, a good guess is twenty five to thirty. Can be applied by hand scattering around tree as far out as branches extend. Then turn it in with a light rake.

Another method is to drill four holes around tree, halfway between trunk and end of branches. Divide fertilizer among four holes, put about six to twelve inches deep and cover with dirt.

LAWNS - Apply 5-10-5 or regular type Vigoro. Scatter well by hand or with dispenser. Soak well.

Attention County Auto Wreckers

Automobile wreckers of Hancock County now have until April 1st of this year to get their old automobile scrap moving into scrap channels.

Information received here from Merrill C. Lofton, regional director of the U. S. Department of Commerce in Atlanta, was to the effect that the National Production Authority of the Commerce Department has just taken action to extend the "deadline" for the disposing of scrap in auto wreckers from April 1, instead of March 1 as originally provided in an NPA order.

The reason for this action, it was stated, was that many auto wreckers in Georgia and other sections of the country had complained that they would not be able to comply with the NPA order and get their scrap moving by March 1 because of the shortness of time.

Miss. Valley Gas Co. Names Chief Engineer

J. Harry Lambdin, well-known state man, is appointed to key post with MV Gas company.

JACKSON, MISS. — J. Harry Lambdin will be chief engineer of the Mississippi Valley Gas Company, it was announced by Minor Summers, president. The gas company recently purchased the natural gas facilities of Mississippi Power & Light Company in 52 cities, towns and communities and will take over actual operation as soon as it is physically possible to do so.

An chief engineer, Mr. Lambdin brings a wealth of experience to his new position. He has had 23 years of service with Mississippi Power & Light Company, a graduate of Miss. State College in mechanical and electrical engineering, and a registered professional engineer.

Mr. Lambdin, member of a prominent Natchez family, is well known throughout the state and in national engineering circles. He is a Presbyterian, a member of Kappa Alpha Fraternity, the Jackson Club and the Jackson Chamber of Commerce. His wife is the former Norville Beard of Jackson and they have three children, Jane, Ann and Harry, Jr. The Lambdins will continue to reside at 828 South Avenue in Jackson since general offices of Mississippi Valley Gas Company will be located in that city.

Expenses of the gas properties was financed for Mississippi Valley Gas Company by Equitable Life Insurance Corporation of Nashville, Tennessee which expects soon to make public offering of the common stock of the gas company.

Sale of the gas properties of Mississippi Power & Light Company to Mississippi Valley Gas Company was approved by the Securities and Exchange Commission on February 22, 1952.

George Faye, who was in a major operation at a hospital last week, is improving and is expected to be discharged in a few days.

Mr. Lofton praised the cooperation of auto wreckers in Hancock County and this area in helping to alleviate the present scrap shortage. "I feel that the reason we have not had more open-heart furnaces this winter was due generally to the tonnages of scrap metal delivered by auto wreckers," he said.

Much of State's Progress Due To Good Transportation

A great part of Mississippi's agricultural, industrial, economic and social development in recent years can be traced to her good and ever improving transportation facilities.

The story of transportation was told early 1900, except, of course, for the history-making marches of Hernando DeSoto through the northern part of the state in 1499-1500.

Although water transportation still is a vital and integral part of the picture, fast rail, highway and airline arteries serving even the most remote areas of the state have opened up new markets and new opportunities which are daily becoming more evident.

In the early days of the settlers communities either hugged the coastline or gravitated upstream to better land, the river banks. Of the river settlements those on the Mississippi were, of course, more numerous, more important, and wealthier. However, other large streams experienced a similar development. Settlements sprang up along the Pearl, the Pascagoula, and the Tombigbee rivers. Columbia, second capital of the state, and the Mississippi River settlements.

The great migration southward along the Mississippi, Ohio and Tennessee Rivers began following the Northwest Ordinance of 1787, moving further down as the lands along the Ohio filled with settlers. By 1793 the forces of American penetration into the Natchez territory was sufficient to drive out the Spaniards, and the planters shifted from tobacco to cotton. Cotton demanded an outlet to a world market, and the Mississippi River served as a connecting link from Natchez.

As the speed and service of steamers improved, the river grew in importance. Vicksburg, at the mouth of the Yazoo and Grand Gulf, at the mouth of the Big Black, grew in importance. Navigation was even possible up these rivers to the Yazoo, the Mississippi, the Gulf, and other inland towns.

State roads did not become important until the period between 1800 and 1820. Rivers, offering easy paths, were naturally the first routes to be used. About the only land transportation up until this time were a few Indian trails, usually following ridges to avoid swampy bottomlands. The importance during the period between the flatboat and introduction of steamboats lay in the fact that they provided the only return route for boatmen.

Natchez Trace The first and most famous of these roads was the Natchez Trace, which angles northeastward across Mississippi and the northwestern tip of Alabama to meet the Tennessee near present Muscle Shoals. In the early period of the Trace it was infested with bandits who waylaid travelers returning with profits from cargoes sold along the river and in New Orleans.

Other roads followed the early Trace. One important road, opened in 1810, connected the Tennessee River and the Tombigbee, providing a shipping route from Pittsburg down the Ohio, up the Tennessee to the Shoals, and across to divide to Cotton Gin Porters in the Tombigbee, and down to Mobile.

Also important was the old Jackson Military Road, authorized by Congress in 1816, and completed in 1820. It extended from Muscle Shoals through Columbus, continuing southwest through the Mississippi River, Woodville, and down to the Gulf. Mobile and other ports were reached by this route.

By 1820, 18 railroads carry the bulk of traffic and cargo and operate in every one of the 82 counties of Mississippi. There are eleven Class I railroads with 3,662 main-line miles, and there are eleven Class II railroads with 1,111 miles. The total mileage of the Mississippi River and Gulf Navigation Company is 1,111 miles.

The Mobile and Ohio, serving Mobile, Meridian, and Corinth, was not completed until 1861. The only other railroad was the early feeders.

Railroads suffered heavily during the Civil War and river carriers made their last stand, but succumbed to the more modern means of transportation with the revival of railroad building in the 1880's.

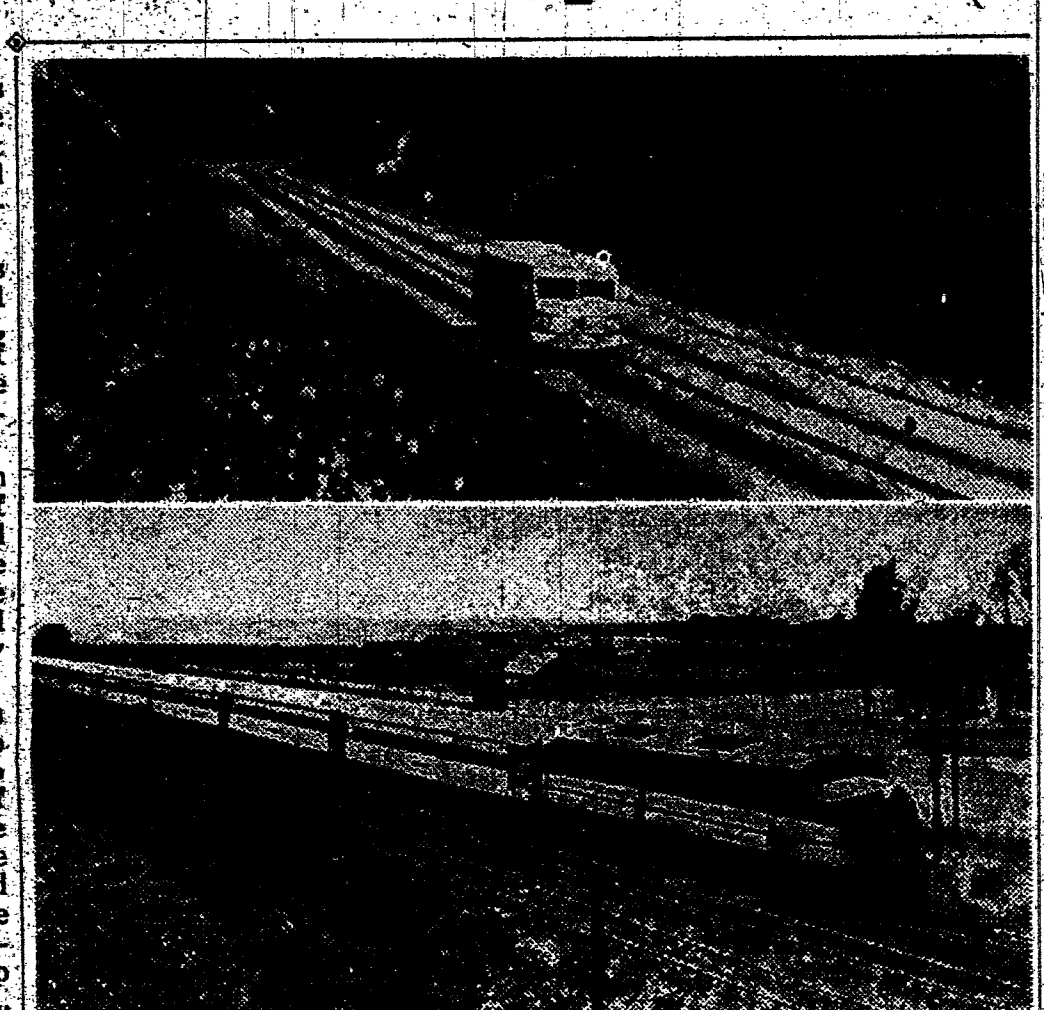

Today 22 railroads carry the bulk of traffic and cargo and operate in every one of the 82 counties of Mississippi. Fast highway, rail and air transportation and development of modern port facilities are making great contributions toward the development of Mississippi industrially, agriculturally, economically and socially. Every one of the 82 counties of the state today is served by rail and highway facilities and rapidly expanding air service is daily opening up more communities to the outside world.

roads, usually established as feeders to the river settlements, were gradually extended as growth of the territory increased.

Early Railroads Railroads, next to enter the transportation picture, were also first constructed as feeders to the river, but by the 1830's it was evident that they were becoming rivals to waterway carriers. The first railroad in Mississippi, and the fifth in the nation extended from Woodville to the river town of Bayou Sara, a distance of 27 miles. Cotton and other products moved over this route for loading onto boats bound for New Orleans or points up the river.

This was the beginning of an experimentation in American railroading, and Mississippi became the testing ground. Between 1834 and 1837 permits were granted for three railroads connecting Natchez with Jackson, Vicksburg with Jackson, and Jackson to the Tombigbee in Alabama.

The railroads did not make a final break with the river until 1850 with the completion of the New Orleans, Jackson and Great Northern, a line between New Orleans and Canton equalling any in the United States. This line was joined at Canton by the Mississippi Central to give a through route to Jackson, Tennessee. Another line connected Grenada and Memphis, while Vicksburg, Jackson, and Meridian were served by still another line known as the Southern.

The Mobile and Ohio, serving Mobile, Meridian, and Corinth, was not completed until 1861. The only other railroad was the early feeders.

SEA COAST ECHO, FRIDAY, MARCH 14, 1952

Tending to more than 4900 chickens at a time is quite a job for a number of people, but for Joseph diBenedetto, it just comes naturally. Mr. diBenedetto, who, following his retirement from the grocery business, started the diBenedetto Poultry Farm to occupy his spare time, has already shipped approximately 30 thousand chickens to the market in little over a year. Three weeks ago he shipped the 4900 chickens, part of which are shown above, to a firm in New Orleans, and immediately after these were cleared out a new batch of 5000 arrived.

Legislative Views

By WALTER JAMES PHILLIPS

This past week of the Legislative session saw many appropriation bills hit the floor, and pass with little or no opposition. These were mainly routine appropriations to take care of the existing State Agencies and were in line with the appropriations as set up in the last fiscal year. There were slight increases in these appropriations but no over-all increase which would warrant any special consideration. There was one bill which passed in the past week of the session, which authorized the State and County to set up special schools for exceptional children. This provided a $200,000.00 appropriation to be made, to allow schools to be set up for those children who are not eligible for the school of the blind or the school of the deaf, and who are retarded in some method so that they are unable to keep up with their class.

The bill provides for the educable child. This program would not be expected, and could not be forced to take any child whose mentality is so low that it cannot be taught. Final decision as to this will be left in the hands of competent psychologists to determine the educability of the child. This would take care of the partially blind child, of the partially deaf child, who needs individual instructions, and needs to be in close contact with the teacher. Under our present system, these children cannot be given the special attention which they need in our regularly taught classes. This would also take care of an epileptic child, or any child, whose nervous condition would hinder the progress of others in the grade, and whose work tolerance is low. Many of these children are now in school today for the simple reason that they cannot remain in school a full day. It was the impression of your Representative that this was a good program, and he cast his vote in favor of it.

Another bill passed the House to provide that, in determining the amount of assistance that an applicant for assistance to the blind will receive, the State Welfare Department shall disregard the first $50.00 per month as earned income. This means that a person who is applying for blind assistance would be allowed to earn up to $50.00 a month before any amount earned by them would be taken into consideration and deducted from the amount of assistance to be given them by the State. It is believed that this bill will eliminate a lot of injustices which are caused now by removing from the rolls these blind persons who are able to get out and do a little something for themselves, and are being penalized by deducting the amount that they have been making from the amount of assistance that they would receive if they just sat back and did nothing to help themselves.

In connection with the welfare program, another bill passed which would require the Welfare Department to file with the Clerk of Courts in each County the names of those persons who are recipients of old age assistance and other assistance programs administered by the State and County Departments of Public Welfare. This bill requires that the reports of payment received shall remain on file in the office for a period of two years from the filing date, after which period the reports may be destroyed by the Chancellor.

The bill strictly limits the purposes for which this information might be used. Should any of this information be misused, the person who is guilty of such misuse would be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction would be subject to a fine of not less than $100.00 nor more than $1,000.00, or by imprisonment in the County Jail for not more than 90 days, or both. This bill is in line with the recent Federal Law passed allowing the disclosure of those persons who are recipients of Public Welfare. It is generally believed that this act will help eliminate from the rolls many of those persons who are not actually in need of such aid, and will allow a more equitable distribution of these Welfare Funds.

After quite a bit of discussion in the floor of the House, a bill which would reorganize the Game and Fish Commission of the State of Mississippi, was finally passed. The bill, as passed, would create a five-man commission instead of the present eight-man commission. Each of the Commissioners would be appointed from the five general areas of the State of Mississippi—that is, the Mississippi Delta, North Mississippi, exclusive of the Delta, Central Mississippi, Southwest Mississippi and Southeast Mississippi, which would include the Gulf Coast. This bill, together with a bill passed some weeks ago, which put the State Game and Fish Commission under the budgetary requirements, as many of the other departments of the State are now under, will, in the opinion of many, do much to correct the bad features of the present Commission.

Your Representative has been asked by the Town Officials of Waveland, Mississippi, to introduce a bill which would enable the town to take care of an epileptic child, or any child, whose nervous condition would hinder the progress of others in the grade, and whose work tolerance is low. Many of these children are now in school today for the simple reason that they cannot remain in school a full day. It was the impression of your Representative that this was a good program, and he cast his vote in favor of it.

Since last writing about the bill which was introduced to enable the Highway Department to convey to Hancock County a portion of the West end of the bridge to be used as a public pier, it has been found that one of the requirements made by the U. S. Engineers was that the entire old bridge be removed from shore to shore. Your Representative has written a letter to our Congressman, William Colmer, asking that he get in touch with the U. S. Engineers to see if this requirement could not be waived, and to allow approximately 2000 feet off of the West end of the old bridge to remain standing and to be used as a public pier. This small portion could not be classed as a navigation hazard, and it can be reasonably anticipated that the U. S. Engineers will comply with such request.

You've already heard, haven't you? that Farm and Home Week at Mississippi State College will be in April this year. The dates are April 22-25. A quick look at your calendar will show that's not much more than a month away. And a month ahead of time isn't too early to be marking the dates and making your plans to attend.

The State Home Demonstration Council is meeting at this time this year, too, instead of in July. The first general session of the Council will be at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon, April 22. Tuesday evening the feature speaker at the first Farm and Home assembly will be Mrs. Raynold Myre, president of the Associated Country Women of the World.

One reason for changing the Farm and Home Week dates from July to April was the more pleasant weather of the Spring. Another was to give the visitors an opportunity to see "Mississippi State College in Action."

Visitors will have a chance to visit classrooms and laboratories, to see and hear the famous State College Marion band perform Friday, the closing day of Farm and Home Week activities, will be the day of the annual Spring Festival at State College. It will be complete with a parade, exhibits and other features.

Governor White will be the speaker on Thursday at the general assembly at Lee Hall auditorium.

GROW MORE, CONSERVE MORE, EAT MORE AND WASTE LESS. This slogan describes the 1952 home garden and home food preservation program. Better get busy and clean out your garden and get started if you are behind schedule.

Why not make a glove guard for safe keeping of those lovely gloves you got for Christmas or bought for Easter? It costs only a few cents and takes little time. The materials you will need are 3/4 yard of 1/4 inch wide grosgrain ribbon (match the color to your handbag or smartly contrast the color), two hooks and eyes, and thread to match the ribbon.

To make the loop that slips on the pocketbook handle:

1. Cut one 5-inch length of ribbon.
2. Cut one 10-inch length of ribbon.
3. Turn in 1/2 inch at both ends of the 10-inch piece and gather through the center.
4. Turn in 1/2 inch at both ends of the 5-inch piece.
5. Draw up the gathered 10-inch piece to fit the 5-inch piece, and sew the two pieces together through the center.
6. Sew hook and eye on the under side.

To make the loop for the gloves:

1. Cut one 3 1/2-inch length of ribbon.
2. Cut one 7-inch length of ribbon.

Interest Stimulated In Ag. Contest

With the planting season near at hand and new prizes in the offing, reports from the state at large indicate stimulated interest in the 1952 vocational agriculture achievement contest on the part of agriculture teachers and ambitious contestants alike.

"There seems to be more interest this year than ever before," says vocational agriculture teacher D. J. Martin, of Sellers High School.

Last week Shelby N. Roberts, agriculture agent for the G. N. & O. Railroad, voluntarily pledged for the railroad $300 to be given as prizes to FFA boys who excel in the forestry phase of the contest. This is in addition to prizes given in 1951 and anticipated for this year.

Ford tractors are offered as first place statewide prizes to those who produce the highest per acre yield of cotton, corn, milk, and beef, and who best carry out prescribed forestry requirements.

The contest is open to all students of vocational agriculture, whether FFA or NFA members, veteran farm trainees, or evening class students.

All claims will be inspected by county, district and state committees before winners are determined, and prizes are to be awarded at rallies for white and colored contestants respectively in Jackson on November 18 and 19.

Awards will be made for high production of corn and cotton on two or more contiguous acres, for highest yield of milk of beef from three or more adjoining acres of pasture, and for the highest score on outlined forestry activities.

Contestants must leave corn and cotton stalks standing in fields until judging by State committee is completed. Pastures may be cross fenced. Milk cows may be fed an average of four pounds of concentrates daily, but home can be fed to beef cattle. In the milk contest two-thirds of the pasture must be of a permanent nature with not more than one-third of the acreage in supplementary summer plantings such as Sudan, Millet and other plants which require plowing and seed bed preparations. Records of feed and milk production should be made available for check and the school committee shall check the feeding and milking at least three times during the year. The contest period is from February 1 through September 30. Actual production weights for grazing periods shall be used.

Rules for the best production contest make mandatory a penalty for over grazing. At end of contest period this is to be checked by committee, and acreage must not have been over grazed. Cattle are to be weighed at time they are placed on grazing and when they are removed from it.

To win forestry prizes, high scores must be made on tally sheet giving 35 points for improvements on 10 per cent of woodlot or on 10 acres, whichever is largest; 25 points for controlling grazing in woodlot; 20 points for construction and maintenance of firebreaks around and through entire woodlot; and 20 points for selective cutting of pre-marked trees that are sold or used on the farm.

BASKETBALL TEAM RECEIVES JACKETS

The long awaited warm-up jackets in maroon and black coloring for the Pass HI Basketball team were distributed to 18 boys Monday.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL GAME NETS $21.19

A check for $21.19 came to the Pass Christian High School as a result of the girls' basketball game played in February at Yman in the sub-regional tournament. While this money was admittedly "hard-earned" cash, school authorities and patrons are proud of the girls' team.

PASS HIGH SCHOOL EVALUATION SET FOR DECEMBER

During the month of December the State Evaluation Board will make a study of conditions in the Pass Christian High School. Purpose of the study is to ascertain whether this school maintains requirements necessary to remain on the Southern Association list of accredited high schools.

Norman Hall, school superintendent, says one of the most urgent needs in the high school is a full time librarian. At present the library is operated by high school students, who cannot be expected to guide other students in the selection of books, nor are they qualified to assist students with reference work. The Pass Christian High School does not, at this time, offer any courses in shop or any form of manual training. Many patrons of the school believe that the introduction of such a course would be most beneficial.

"There is the contention," said Mr. Hall, "that to add a librarian and other teachers to the high school faculty would mean increasing the already high taxes." Mr. Hall expressed the belief that needed teachers could be added to the school with no further tax mills for school.

Superintendent Hall said the valuation placed on properties in Harrison County are, in many instances, too low. "There has not been an adjustment made in property evaluations in this county in 15 years," stated Mr. Hall.

Mr. Hall further pointed out that Henderson Point has grown rapidly in recent years and now has a spur railroad, fish canning industry and business establishments to carry their portion of the tax-burden in paying for better schooling for high school students.

The Board of Trustees for the Pass Christian Public Schools is composed of: W. A. Barksdale, president; J. W. Terrell, secretary; Donald DeMetz, Frank R. Wharton and A. B. Tipping. These men give unstintingly of their time and efforts in the interest of better educational advantages for the children and youth of Harrison County.

In behalf of the school, it is generally admitted that the Pass Christian Public School is ideally located, kept in a clean and orderly condition, serves an approved school lunch, and is staffed with qualified teachers.

SUPT. HALL APPOINTED DELEGATE FOR CONVENTION M. E. A. ON MARCH 20

Superintendents and principals of the Harrison County schools at a recent meeting appointed Superintendent of Public Schools Norman Hall to attend the convention of the Mississippi Education Association as their delegate. The convention will be held in Jackson, starting March 20. Delegates attending this convention will help the association to determine the program for the coming year. During Mr. Hall's absence, Prof. W. S. Van Landingham will assume the superintendent's duties.

GIRL LAPICCOLO WINS TROPHY

On February 29 the Junior Class of the Pass Christian High School sponsored a Petrolane Talent Show in order to finance their annual school prom and banquet. There was an estimated attendance of some 500 persons and the door receipts were $236.31. Of this amount there was a $40 expenditure for the music leaving clear almost two hundred dollars for student's needs.

The show, with Col. Petrolane as master of ceremonies, got underway to provide fun, prizes, music and also opportunity for talented students. Door-prize winners were: Robert Dubuison, a sophomore in Pass High, who received a portable radio; and Eugene Rogers, also a high school student who won an electric toaster.

Young Rogers expressed appreciation of the toaster and right then and there announced over the mike his engagement to Mary Norris, also a high school student.

Lovick Ladner Jr., who is 11 years old and lives in the DeLisle community, was the winner of the Shelby Flying Cloud bicycle, worth $78.95. The Ladner youth was given the bike as a prize for selling more tickets to the show than any other competitor.

Talent from the Pass Christian schools was presented first with a total of 15 competing, following this the 15 guest talented students were presented. Winner was determined by popular audience vote, and the applause was accurately registered by meter to insure an honest decision. Young Ciro Lapiccolo, a boy in the second grade at the Pass Christian public school, who has been taking accordion lessons from his father, Frank Lapiccolo, was acclaimed the winner. The boy was poised and confident, and played "Home Sweet Home" with firm, even tones and good rhythm. The applause told the story of Ciro's victory even before the four most likely to win were brought out for the applause. Ciro won a handsome gold-plated trophy, inscribed with his name and he is now entitled to compete in a run-off talent show for special audition by the staff of Ted Mack and the original amateur hour. Winner of this competition will go to New York.

CANTRELL CHILDREN PLEA FOR PARAKEET

Wanda and Sue Cantrell, who live in New Orleans and spend their weekends and summers in Pass Christian, have made a request that the Echo assist them in finding their pet bird, a parakeet named King.

King is a beautiful blue Parakeet and extremely precocious. He is tame and will perch on the forefinger of your outstretched hand, light on your shoulder or take a ride on your head. He says "Sue" very plainly, and if you love birds and have a good listening ear you can understand him say: "Pretty bird".

Last Saturday as Wanda ran from her house into the yard, King followed her and was frightened by some dogs. He flew into a wooded area just beyond Sherman Drive. A light was left burning all night in the yard in hopes that King might see it and return. King's cage was placed on a table in the Cantrell yard but, as yet, he has not found his way back.

Should King be seen in your neighborhood won't you please extend a finger and capture him so that he may be returned to Wanda and Sue?

Farm-Home Week Plans Arranged

State College, Miss.—Farm and Home Week here April 22-25, last day of which will be the annual Spring Festival, will permit visitors to see all college departments in full operation, announced Dr. Fred T. Mitchell, president, Mississippi State College.

Plans are nearing completion for the widest variety of activity ever offered visitors here, college officials said.

The program includes two-hour periods of practical demonstration and discussion of almost every farm enterprise, opportunities to see students at work in all classrooms and laboratories, a military parade, a parade of floats, special music, exhibits, tours and state-wide meetings of several organizations.

NEHI BOTTLING CO. GULFPORT, MISS.

Conducted much like "field days," the separate short programs on April 23 and 24 will be on such subjects as beef cattle raising, hog production, poultry, irrigation, chemical weed control, field crops, forestry and horticulture. Farm family living demonstrations of particular interest to women will be on landscaping, home gardening, housing, lighting, decorations and foods.

A detailed schedule of these events will be announced later, stated H. H. Leveck, associate director of the Experiment Station and chairman of the Farm and Home Week steering committee. Professor W. W. Littlejohn of the accounting department heads the Spring Festival Committee.

The four-day program will begin on the afternoon of April 22 with the opening session of the Mississippi Home Demonstration Council, Mrs. John Hancock, of Vicksburg, presiding. Council sessions will continue through noon Thursday.

Mrs. Raymond Sayre, of Ackworth, Iowa, president, Associated Country Women of the World, will be the April 22 evening speaker. The two-day Fourth Annual Church and Community Conference will begin April 23. Four workshops meeting at three different periods will study church-community responsibilities to special community organizations, to youth, to family life, and in worship through music.

The Rev. Eugene Smathers, of Big Lick, Tenn., will deliver an address on "The Church Moves the Community" at the April 23 morning session.

In general assembly, speaker at the fellowship dinner that evening will be Lieutenant Governor Carroll Garlin.

Awards recognizing churches for community service will be presented during the general assembly by the Rev. C. E. Patch, of Baldwin, chairman, Mississippi Christian Community Fellowship.

Governor Hugh White will address the general assembly on April 24, which will be Farm Organization Day. Sessions of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation are scheduled that day. An added colorful feature will be the parade by State College military students.

The Spring Festival, a climax with the entire college on display, will be April 25. Activities will be presented through a parade of floats, exhibits, exhibits and tours. Mississippi's press and radio people will be special guests of State College on April 25.

While it is hoped that as many Mississippians as possible will attend the Spring Festival, all departments will hold open house on the two preceding Farm and Home Week days, between 3 and 5 p.m., Chairman Leveck said. Organized tours of the Experiment Station Farms are scheduled each morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard F. Farrelly will visit Commander and Mrs. Frank Mashburn in Hattiesburg this weekend.

Over 60 young physicians who have completed medical training with the aid of such loans are now practicing in the State. Another group of approximately 60 are now in internship and will be ready to enter practice this summer and fall.

Destroy Nutgrass

By: Vernon C. Harris, Agronomist
Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station

Nutgrass (coco) can be eradicated in small areas, such as lawns, flower beds, gardens, by the use of methyl bromide. The method is fast, effective and laborious for field use. The methyl bromide treatment also kills Johnson grass, Bermuda grass, and many weed seeds. There is some evidence that nematode populations are reduced by methyl bromide fumigation.

Methyl bromide is poisonous and must be handled with care. The chemical is odorless, but most commercial preparations contain added materials such as tear gas which gives an odor that is easily detected. With proper care in application one can use methyl bromide in the open with very little risk. Methyl bromide may be obtained from several chemical manufacturers. One manufacturer is distributing it in small trial application kits. The cost of methyl bromide is about 82 cents a pound at the present time.

Best results from the treatment are obtained when the soil is warm (above 50 degrees F.) and has been spread to a depth of 10 inches. The spaded area to be treated is covered with a gas-proof cover, such as Sisalkraft paper, Visqueen, or rubberized tarpaulin. The cover must be elevated in the center. This is accomplished by building a low wooden frame over which the cover is placed. The paper is sealed around the edges by covering the edges with soil. The cover must be tight and any holes in it should be closed with gummed tape. One pound of methyl bromide per 100 sq. feet

To Hold Clinics For Trades People

Jackson, Miss. (Special) - Hospitality Clinics designed to train service trades people in the art of handling the traveling public are being offered Mississippi communities by the State Vocational Education Department, and through the cooperation of the Agricultural & Industrial Board.

This year's Clinics will be conducted by Mrs. Jewell Burgess, an experienced instructor. They are available through either the Vocational Education Department or the Agricultural and Industrial Board, both located in the State Office Building in Jackson. Clinics will be available to every Mississippi community at no expense to them.

The Clinic, consisting of two sessions of 2 hours duration each, will cover many phases which are of importance to Mississippi communities which are interested in getting a share of the state's annually $222,000,000 tourist business.

In addition to instruction and orientation on Mississippi's Points of Interest, Mrs. Burgess will give persons attending the sessions some interesting pointers on how to give directions, tips on what local citizens can do to entice visitors and make them want to come back, dramatizations of important events and other valuable suggestions for improving their tourist promotion program.

The course also will include an interesting film dealing with courtesy and color slide lectures showing important and interesting tourist attractions in Mississippi.

Everyone is urged to attend these courses, but particular emphasis will be placed on the following: retail sales people; hotel, restaurant and amusement service personnel; service station attendants; transportation personnel; rail, bus, airline and taxicab; and police officers.

soil surface should be released under the cover into a container. The area should remain covered for at least 48 hours. The treated area may be planted safely about two to three days after the cover is removed.

Approximately 100 percent control may be expected, but an occasional tuber may escape. Do not let these few escaped "nuts" reinfest the area, as they will quickly do it if left alone. Remove them at once.

BROWNIES DEN

Brownie Troop 1 has been divided into two troops. The response to the call for members was so great that there were 43 Brownies in one troop. Since Girl Scout regulations do not permit a troop of that size, Mrs. John Morrill, Jr., and Mrs. Ezelda Ling, as assistant, took 26 members from eight to nine years of age.

Mrs. Dennis Tonkel and Mrs. K. Katie Kramer, as assistant, formed Brownie Troop II with 17 girls in the seven to eight year bracket.

Both troops are sponsored by the Main Street Methodist church.

Troop I will meet in the Methodist Education building on Wednesday afternoons and Troop II will meet on Thursday afternoons.

The leaders are preparing to register their troops in the worldwide organization of Girl Scouts and Girl Guides. As soon as this is done, the girls will be permitted to wear their uniforms and will receive Brownie pins at a candlelight investiture service.

March 19 has been selected as the date for the Girl Scout cookie sale in Bay St. Louis and Waveland. These chocolate and vanilla cream sandwich wafers are prepared and packed specially for the Girl Scouts by a large national cookie concern. They will sell for thirty-five cents a box. Mrs. Tonkel is chairman of the sale.

The percentage profit realized from this sale will be used to help support the troop needs and defray some of the cost of the summer camping activities for which tentative plans are being made for Brownies and Intermediate Scouts to attend a two-weeks camp session at the Live Oak Council Scout Camp at Camp Bernard in Gulfport.

The Brownie Scouts entertained their parents and a few friends with a traditional Scout "Show-off" Friday, February 29, at 7:00 p. m. at the Bay High Home Economics center.

Cookies and punch were prepared and served by the Brownies, and a gossamer made by the members in a handicraft session, was given as a favor to each Brownie mother.

Assisting the Brownies in meeting their guests were Mesdames J. E. Erwin, John Morrill Jr., Dennis Tonkel, Ezelda Ling and Katie Kramer.

Brownie Scouts entertaining were Inez Favre, Judy Raymond, Elizabeth Rausch, Martha Carr, Mary Ann Pahlman, Delta Jacobi, Margaret Moreau, Era Kramer, Marie Rausch, Penny Sue Webb, Patricia Patterson, Mary Beth Murtagh, Edith Traub, Denise Tonkel, Gloria Kimmel, Jeannie

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER

W. F. Bond, Commissioner State
Department Public Welfare

Complaint has been made by some old age assistance clients that some of their checks are being endorsed without their knowledge or consent by some merchants and other persons through-out the State.

This is strictly against Federal and State Laws and such violation carries a heavy penalty.

Every old person must either write his or her name as an endorsement on the back of the check or make a mark in the presence of a witness as indicated on the check.

Payment of checks not properly endorsed may be stopped at the bank.
